RAY 2018 Fotografieprojekte Frankfurt/RheinMain EXTREME

The image defines the reality of our life day in and day out. With the theme EXTREME the photo triennial RAY Fotografieprojekte Frankfurt/RheinMain 2018 accounts for this power of the image with a multitude of international artists' positions. For decades, the institutions and collections in Frankfurt/RheinMain have shown an outstanding focus and competence in the field of photography. After the first two successful editions RAY 2012 and RAY 2015 this unique quality and versatility is presented with a unique constellation: Over 40 artists, 15 partner institutions, 10 exhibition venues and 6 cities in the Rhine/Main region put this focus in the international spotlight. With exhibitions, a multitude of events and – for the first time – a four-day festival dedicated to the Triennial theme EXTREME, RAY offers yet another summer of photographic highlights from 24 May to 9 September 2018.

RAY 2018 EXTREME

Technical innovations, digitalisation and globalisation, population growth, and climate change create shifts in the social and political conditions worldwide. Crises, wars, extremism, and populism shake our values, norms, and organizational infrastructures. The extreme is booming. Especially in this age of digitally circulating information and images that demand an economy of attention, the extreme triggers the desire to be captured in an image. The more extraordinary and marginal the image, the more alluring it is. The resulting images deter from the normative, and sometimes even “good taste”. They are the photographic expression of a fascination with the extraordinary, the other, the dissolution of boundaries, the artificial, the bizarre, the outermost, the shock, the accidental. But they also give witness to the beautiful, the fleeting moment, the vulnerable, and the fragile. In five exhibitions dealing with the phenomena of the extreme, the invited artists reflect upon global socio-economic transformations as well as the role and function of photography that focuses not on the norm, but on the exception.

The curatorial concept of RAY 2018 EXTREME was developed by curators of the participating institutions and collections of photography in Frankfurt and the region: Anne-Marie Beckmann (Deutsche Börse Photography Foundation), Peter Gorschlüter (MMK Museum für Moderne Kunst Frankfurt am Main), Alexandra Lechner (Darmstädter Tage der Fotografie), Celina Lunsford (Fotografie Forum Frankfurt), and Matthias Wagner K (Museum Angewandte Kunst, Frankfurt am Main). Together they have developed five exhibitions, in which the selected artists highlight different aspects of the extreme.

The exhibition EXTREME. SELF, presented by the Darmstädter Tage der Fotografie in collaboration with the Kunstforum der TU Darmstadt, presents the three artists Aneta Grzeszykowska, Laís Pontes and Isabelle Wenzel who dedicate themselves to personal and imaginative aspects of self-perception, which move beyond the selfie mania. For this exhibition, Isabelle Wenzel developed a new work in January 2018 in Darmstadt on the Mathildenhöhe as part of her series Field Studies.

Fotografieprojekte Frankfurt/RheinMain

In the exhibition EXTREME. TERRITORIES the Deutsche Börse Photography Foundation shows landscapes, some of which have been turned into dystopian places through political and economic developments. Photographs presented include works by Christoph Bangert, Anne Heinlein and Göran Gnaudschun, Sze Tsung Nicolás Leong, Gregor Sailer and Guy Tillim.

The Fotografie Forum Frankfurt dedicates itself to ecological shifts: The exhibition EXTREME. ENVIRONMENTS brings together artists who critically examine the influence of mankind on nature in different parts of the world: Mathieu Asselin, Krista Caballero and Frank Ekeberg, Lois Hechenblaikner, Paula Luttringer, Pradip Malde, Gideon Mendel and Ami Vitale. The artist duo Krista Caballero and Frank Ekeberg were guests in Frankfurt in preparation for their Frankfurt edition of their long-term project Birding the Future (since 2010), dealing with the bird population in the Rhine-Main area. During their field research, they met local bird experts from Frankfurt at the Natural History Museum Senckenberg and the Frankfurt Grün Gürtel. The results are presented in the form of an interactive multimedia installation at the FFF and in public space.

With the works of Cao Fei, Richard Mosse and Paulo Nazareth the exhibition EXTREME. NOMADS at the MMK 1 of the MMK Museum für Moderne Kunst focuses on contemporary forms of nomadic existence and deals with the dissolution of boundaries in politics, economy, society, and culture in the digital age. Apart from the generous presentation of several works by the Chinese artist Cao Fei and the Brazilian artist Paulo Nazareth, the 20-meter long panoramic film installation Incoming by the artist Richard Mosse is one of the many highlights of the exhibition. His installation is presented together with loans from the collections of the DZ BANK Art Collection and the Deutsche Börse Photography Foundation.

In the Museum Angewandte Kunst artists investigate representations of body and identity in the exhibition EXTREME. BODIES. the artists Antoine d'Agata, Martin Liebscher, Inez van Lamsweerde and Vinoodh Matadin as well as Arno Rafael Minkinen, Boris Mikhailov and Carolín Saage explore topics such as gender, drug excesses, borderline lifestyles, poverty, as well as the under- and over-representation of their own body. The exhibition presents never-before-seen new constellations and works by French photographer Antoine d'Agata and Finnish-US-American photographer Arno Rafael Minkinen.

RAY 2018 Festival during Opening week

For the first time ever, RAY 2018 launches with a versatile four-day festival programme from 24 to 27 May 2018. With talks and panel discussions artists, renowned academics and experts of different fields jointly investigate the phenomenon of the extreme from different perspectives. Together they discuss themes and artistic examples in order to generate sustainable impulses for art practitioners, cultural institutions, and the general public. The festival will be hosted at the MMK 3 of the MMK Museum für Moderne Kunst Frankfurt am Main. During the festival kick-off RAY 2018 will also offer a diverse education programme that invites children, teenagers and adults to explore the photographic medium and aspects of the triennial theme while enabling participation on different levels.

Fotografieprojekte Frankfurt/RheinMain

Visitors themselves become active in participatory workshops, raffles and the photo contest #EXTREMECITIZEN. During the Festival Sunday, 27 May, visitors can take part in the workshop EXTREM EXPERIMENTIERT at the Festival hub between 12 and 4 pm. Inspired by the artists' works of the RAY 2018 EXTREME exhibitions and led by Berlin photographer Marzena Skubatz and the art education team of the MMK, they will create their own photographic works of art and can take them home with them.

RAY MASTER CLASS and RAY JUNIOR

Moreover, RAY 2018 is organising the premiere of a MASTER CLASS in collaboration with the HfG Hochschule für Gestaltung Offenbach, Hochschule Darmstadt, Kunsthochschule Mainz as well as the Staatliche Hochschule für Bildende Künste – Städelschule. The results will be presented in the exhibition N E X U S at the festival hub at MMK 3. With this, RAY fosters an exchange between the regional art academies and international artists in the field of photography and offers young artists a public platform. The Master Class is made possible by the support of Olympus and the Crespo Foundation. The MASTER CLASS is led by Arno Rafael Minkinen, whose work will be on display in the exhibition EXTREME. BODIES.

RAY JUNIOR

Additionally, RAY 2018 continues its youth programme RAY JUNIOR that will offer workshops for schools in the Rhine/Main region. The produced outcomes will be published in a catalogue produced in collaboration with the Kulturfonds Frankfurt RheinMain. In six workshop weeks, photographers Wolfgang Zurborn and Mirko Krizanovic will work together with art educator Lisa Weber and teachers and students from schools in Aschaffenburg, Darmstadt, Frankfurt, Mainz, Offenbach and Wiesbaden.

RAY PARTNER PROJECTS

As part of the overall RAY 2018 exhibition programme the DZ BANK Kunstsammlung, Frankfurter Kunstverein, Kunst- und Kulturstiftung Opelvillen Rüsselsheim, Marta Hoepffner-Gesellschaft für Fotografie e.V. im Stadtmuseum Hofheim and the Nassauische Kunstverein Wiesbaden present their own exhibitions, which broaden the scope of the theme EXTREME with multilayered perspectives within contemporary photography.

In its ART FOYER the DZ BANK Kunstsammlung dedicates its exhibition DECIPHERING NUMBERS IN ART to a topic that permeates both throughout art and the financial sector. With its presentation of FOAM TALENT | FRANKFURT, the Frankfurter Kunstverein expands the RAY network to Amsterdam and shows works of twenty young photographers under the age of 35, who are selected every year after the internationally renowned Open Call FOAM TALENT and shown at the FOAM Photography Museum in Amsterdam. The exhibition is also presented in London and New York.

For the first time, the exhibition Pure Passion at the Kunst- und Kulturstiftung Opelvillen Rüsselsheim presents prints and negatives from the amateur photographers Peter Dammann, Eugen Gerbert, Axel Herrmann, and Vasilii Lefter. Over decades each of them documented their travels, families, and partners minutely and almost obsessively.

Fotografieprojekte Frankfurt/RheinMain

For the Marta Hoepffner-Gesellschaft für Fotografie e.V. at the Stadtmuseum Hofheim the artists Stefanie Schroeder and Christian A. Werner develop the exhibition Holy Smoke, an artistic-documentary examination of poverty. The exhibition H × B × T at the Nassauischer Kunstverein Wiesbaden features the artists Felicity Hammond, Bianca Pedrina, Kathrin Sonntag, and Julian Irlinger who examine the relationship of space and art.

RAY PLUS

Next to RAY EXTREME, RAY PLUS offers an overview of independent photography exhibitions taking place in the Rhine/Main region during RAY 2018. This includes the group exhibition Image Profile. Aspects of the Documentary in the Photographic Collection of the MMK at the MMK 2 of the MMK Museum für Moderne Kunst, the Deutsche Börse Photography Foundation Prize 2018 at the MMK 3 of MMK the Museum für Moderne Kunst, and the solo exhibition of the photographer Ursula Schulz-Dornburg at the Städel Museum. Off-spaces and galleries such as the two branches of the city kiosk Yok Yok in the train station district and in the Fahrgasse as well as the Galerie Rundgaenger in the Niddastraße are also participating in the independent programme.

RAY 2018 Website an Online Magazine

Starting in February, the newly designed Triennial website ray2018.de offers a comprehensive and easy-to-grasp overview of the exhibition venues and events taking place in the context of RAY 2018. The website provides detailed information on the entire festival programme and other events. Thanks to its responsive design, festival and exhibition visitors can keep themselves up-to-date about current events in the Festival hub as well as events accompanying the exhibition in the palm of their hands.

In addition, the website offers many other dynamic contents. This year the Triennial RAY 2018 will offer interviews and background stories on RAY 2018 and artists with the new RAY Magazine in cooperation with the Museum blog of the MMK Museum für Moderne Kunst, mmk-notes.de. The artists' talks and panel discussions recorded during the RAY Festival, will be available as podcasts so that the website will house a lasting archive of the Festival events.

RAY 2018 Guide

An English and German guide with information and illustrations on all RAY 2018 exhibitions and accompanying events is available free of charge at all participating exhibition venues.

About RAY

The collaborative initiative RAY Fotografieprojekte Frankfurt/RheinMain was founded in 2010 on the initiative of the Kulturfonds Frankfurt RheinMain in order to highlight and bring together the competence and diversity of photography in the Rhine/Main region: “After the success of the first two editions of the photography triennial RAY, I look forward to the continuation of RAY 2018, which will undoubtedly strengthen the artistic diversity of our region and our reputation as an outstanding region of art and culture. We see the international importance of the photo triennial RAY 2018 as a stellar example for our funding goals that includes supporting projects that foster visibility beyond the region and contribute to the regional network at the same time” concludes Dr. Helmut Müller, managing director of the Kulturfonds Frankfurt RheinMain.

RAY 2018 MASTER CLASS Exhibition Festival hub at MMK 3 of the MMK Museum für Moderne Kunst

N E X U S

24 May to 27 May

Opening: Wednesday, 23. May, 7pm

Perhaps Georges Braque and Man Ray traded art secrets over a glass of wine or two in Paris, but Braque's principles and Man Ray's practice surely informed much of the discussion in this spring's RAY MASTER CLASS that was conducted with eleven students from the Rhine/Main region. "Out of limited means," Braque noted, "new forms emerge". Man Ray, of course, proved Braque was spot on, time and again. Working from limitations, an artist discovers what it is he or she can do; and equally critical, what it is she or he will not do. Braque and Man Ray created entirely separate pathways, not projects with beginnings, middles, and ends, nor specific solutions addressing specific curatorial intents. Instead, they sought something far more challenging, as did the RAY MASTER CLASS: the possibility of creating lifelong visions built on the staying power of staying the course, making every piece different, yet keeping everything essentially the same. A bit extreme, one could say, considering the plethora of project-driven student work today.

The students of the RAY 18 MASTER CLASS—an experimental nexus of four university photography programs comprising eleven vastly unlike yet highly creative souls—here present selections from their attempts to remain consistent, to take the temporary out of contemporary, and to begin building the lifetime visions that can, and thus will, reach audiences far and wide. Judging from the vast range of their disparate approaches, the hope remains that lens-based art can continue to remain as vibrant and meaningful as ever.

Art is risk made visible.

— Arno Rafael Minkinen

RAY MASTER CLASS students:

Joschua Yesni Arnaut (*1989 DE), Laura Brichta (*1991 DE), Alice Glagau (*1990 DE), Onur Gökmen (*1985 TR), Siri Hagberg (*1992 SE), Laura De Luca (*1995 DE), Felicitas von Lutzau (*1988 DE), Hannah Moser (*1990 DE), Ivan Murzin (*1985 RU), Philipp Rabe (*1993 DE), Felix Schöppner (*1990 DE)

The RAY MASTER CLASS is a cooperation between RAY 2018 and Hochschule für Gestaltung Offenbach am Main, Staatliche Hochschule für Bildende Künste - Städelschule, Hochschule Darmstadt, Kunsthochschule Mainz. The first RAY MASTER CLASS was led by Arno Rafael Minkinen and is supported by Crespo Foundation and Olympus.

RAY 2018 EXTREME EXHIBITIONS Darmstädter Tage der Fotografie in cooperation with the Kunstforum der TU Darmstadt

EXTREME. SELF
26 May – 19 August 2018

In the RAY 2018 exhibition EXTREME. SELF, three artists focus on personal as well as imaginative aspects of self-perception.

The only thing Aneta Grzeszykowska's (*1974 PL) Selfie have in common with smartphone selfies is the name. She created a portrait of herself composed of many different parts and combines physicality, sensuality and autoeroticism with black humour. Minutely formed body parts are combined, arranged and photographed as in a scientific collection. Through the use of pigskin, the body parts are deceptively realistic on closer examination. This seems disturbing and fascinating at the same time. The series, Selfie is essentially an analysis of the process of "self-creation". The artist approaches the radical and shocking assertion that self-creation is only a different fallible means to deal with the mortal nature of the body.

Laís Pontes (*1981 BR) followed an entirely different approach with her works. Born nowhere is an interaction of the artist with other Facebook users. She photographed herself in different roles and presented these portraits on a Facebook page. She then asked the community what kind of biography they would attribute to these women. An extensive online dialogue ensued, in which each portrait received a biography from the collected comments of the other users. On that basis, four characters in the series, Born Now Here were further developed by "entrusting" selected Facebook members with these characters.

The works of Isabelle Wenzel (*1982 DE) are completely situated in the real world. Her initial question is: "Who am I, what is the subject and what kind of relationship do we have to each other?" Her photographs are the result of an acrobatic performance in front of the camera. She positions herself in unusual and seemingly impossible poses in strange, unspectacular places and creates the image with a delayed-action shutter release. For Isabelle Wenzel, improvisation and spontaneity are essential factors in creating images. In the photograph, her body becomes a sculpture in space, her personality recedes into the background, her face remains hidden. Surfaces, colours and the pure form take center-stage and captivates the viewer's gaze. She especially created new images in Darmstadt for the series Field Studies which, together with other works, such as from the series Transformations, can be seen for the first time.

RAY 2018 – EXTREME EXHIBITIONS Deutsche Börse Photography Foundation

EXTREME.TERRITORIES

25 May — 28 September 2018

Opening: 24 May 2018, 6:30pm

The EXTREME.TERRITORIES exhibition shows regions whose residents are exposed to exceptional conditions as a result of political and economic developments. The focus lies on the traces and shifts that mark the landscape, bearing witness to uprooting, separation and alienation. They arise as a consequence of political conflicts and upheavals but also through the negative side of rapid economic growth. The works by the six selected artists reflect this in diverse and impressive ways. The project Wüstungen (Devastations) by Anne Heinlein (*1977 DE) and Göran Gnaudschun (*1971 DE) shows photographs and archive material from border areas that were razed to the ground in the former East Germany. The banishment of long-term residents associated with the former is also the subject of the History Images series by Sze Tsung Nicolás Leong (*1970 MX/GB/US), addressing the radical architectural changes resulting from the economic upswing that have transformed the urban landscape in Chinese cities.

In Hello Camel, Christoph Bangert (*1978 DE) explores the extreme life circumstances caused by war. He shows how soldiers stationed in war zones in Iraq and Afghanistan strive for a bit of normality in the exclusion zones created for them there. Gregor Sailer (*1980 AT) travelled to extremely different regions around the world to show how bizarre these and other settlements hermetically sealed off from the outside world appear or even are simulated in his two series Potemkin Village and Closed Cities.

And Guy Tillim's (*1962 ZA) Avenue Patrice Lumumba series paints a touchingly poetic portrait of sometimes seemingly morbid post-colonial buildings in African cities. The shown monuments contain both visions of political liberation and reflections of failure.

EXTREME. ENVIRONMENTS
24 May – 9 September 2018
Opening: 23 May 2018, 7pm

For RAY 2018 contemporary photo-based artists who are working on the forefront of environmental awareness are brought together at the Fotografie Forum Frankfurt. Nearly half a century after the exhibition curated by William Jenkins New Topographics: The Man-Altered Landscape was shown in Rochester, New York, the photo-activists, story tellers and artists today are concerned with obvious and hidden aspects of man's impact on the environment. EXTREME. ENVIRONMENTS addresses drastic environmental developments concerning global warming, extinction and industrial or political fraudulence.

In his long-term project Drowning World, South African born photographer Gideon Mendel has crossed the world portraying those whose lives have been devastated through massive floods; Lois Hechenblaikner's behind-the-scenes photographs and short films reveal how Glacier Pathology and Alpine Entertainment effect winter sport tourism. Three very different artistic approaches deal with the effects of when governments or corporations hide damages that evolve to epic proportions: Mathieu Asselin's award-winning book and installation project deals with the multinational agrochemical and biotechnology corporation Monsanto, Pradip Malde's The Third Heaven, a homage to the resilience of Haiti, and Paula Luttringer's Entrevero – a series of double exposures of a forgotten disaster in Argentina resurfacing through draught.

National Geographic photographer Ami Vitale or artist duo Frank Ekeberg & Krista Caballero take viewers to real and staged habitats of animals threatened with extinction. A highlight of EXTREME. ENVIRONMENTS will be the interactive stations created about the Frankfurt Rhine/Main bird populations by Ekeberg and Caballero for their global series Birding the Future.

RAY 2018 – EXTREME EXHIBITIONS

Museum Angewandte Kunst

EXTREME. BODIES

24 May – 9 September 2018

Opening: 23 May 2018, 7pm

In the Museum Angewandte Kunst the exhibition EXTREME. BODIES sheds light on representations of body and identity. Here, photography serves as the testimony of the body. The extreme finds its expression in photography – whether in the attitude of the photographer or the perception of habitats beyond the confines of normative standards set by society. For example, Carolin Saage (*1988 DE) who for years has portrayed Transgender individuals worldwide, beyond or within the photographer's own environment, looks at and past the self-chosen staging while exposing herself to extreme emotions. In contrast, Antoine d'Agata (*1961 FR), whose photography is a reassurance of his own identity within his immediate experience in nights full of alcohol, drugs, violence and sex. D'Agata states: "It is not our view of the world that counts, but our most intimate experiences within it."

Likewise, Boris Mikhailov (*1938 UA/DE) flirts with the borders of normality with his series Case History (1997–1998), in his Ukrainian hometown Charkow, he documents the castaways of the post-socialist society while focusing on the body as a means of expression, through portraits of the people. This presence of a person is absent in Jamie Brunskill's (*1983 GB) films. The bodies and heads within his films are left distorted and appear like living sculptures or like carnal substrate of non-recognisable individuals. On the opposite side are the body images of the pioneers of digital photography, Inez van Lamsweerde (*1963 NL/FR) and Vinoodh Matadin (*1961 NL). With their image manipulations of the 1990s they not only revolutionised fashion photography, but also delivered an imagination of designing a body.

Arno Rafael Minkinen's (*1945 FI/US) surreal self-portraits that are not digitally manipulated only show parts of his body. He understands his work as "the most honest attempt to create an accordance between myself and nature." While Minkinen nearly disappears within his work, Martin Liebscher (*1964 DE) clones himself a hundred-fold in one image. In his "family" pictures, Liebscher poses in different gestures and stances at notorious places. The single images are later merged together on the computer. This creates images that lead the notion of identity into the absurd.

RAY 2018 — EXTREME EXHIBITIONS

MMK 1 of the MMK Museum für Moderne Kunst Frankfurt am Main

EXTREME. NOMADS

24 May — 9 September 2018

Opening: 23 May 2018, 7pm

With the works of Cao Fei, Richard Mosse and Paulo Nazareth, the exhibition EXTREME. NOMADS focuses on different aspects of contemporary forms of nomadic existence and addresses the dissolution of boundaries in politics, economy, society, and culture. The artists from three continents are not only investigating the individual, social and political extremes that are a result of globalisation, but also their own artistic strategies prove to be expanding boundaries.

In her works, Cao Fei (*1978 CN) processes the profound social changes that occurred in her homeland China as a result of rapid economic growth and globalisation. Inspired by the US-American zombie films, the artist presents her work Haze and Fog. This is a fictional portrayal of a service-based society that is suffering from a loss of identity and transforms one of the newly built residential areas on the threshold of Beijing into a hoard of restless zombies.

Richard Mosse (*1980 IE/US) has developed a body of work that is both unabashedly aesthetic whilst simultaneously fraught with political and ethical implications. Throughout his work, Mosse subverts weaponized photographic technologies, using them to confront the viewer and refresh documentary forms. His recent works, Incoming and the photographic series The Castle, are made in response to the mass migration crisis unfolding across Europe, the Middle East and North Africa, the largest displacement of people since the Second World War. The film installation Incoming, that was produced in collaboration with composer Ben Frost and cinematographer Trevor Tweeten, documents the journeys of refugees into Europe, while The Castle documents the condition of the camps and staging sites in which they reside. Mosse has employed a military-grade thermographic surveillance camera that can detect human body heat from a distance of 30.3 km.

Paulo Nazareth (*1977 BR) declared walking as the starting point of his artistic approach. Taking his heritage as a Brazilian with Indigenous and African roots as a theme, he crosses entire countries and continents on foot. Nazareth's works tell a tale of his encounters and many experiences from his travels; of communication and resistance, of colonial history and the presence of globalism. They weave a web between individuals, communities and countries beyond their national borders.

DECIPHERING NUMBERS IN ART

24 May – 20 October 2018

Opening: 23 May 2018, 7pm (Prior registration required on website, see below)

The 25th anniversary of the DZ BANK Kunstsammlung is an opportunity to devote the anniversary exhibition to one theme that visualises the interconnectedness of art and the banking system: “numbers”.

Numbers not only play a large role in our working lives, but they are also phenomena that effect every area of our lives. Numbers are popular today. More than ever our private lives are evaluated with the help of numbers and summarized in algorithms. What can be translated into numerical values, suggests measurability, evaluation of success, ability to forecast the future. Numbers are a proof of fact. But the figures we are using require a fundamental interpretation, and this usually gets lost during these processes. The presumed safety of numbers gives us a good feeling of being in charge. Photographs are also attributed with the ability to capture the unfiltered reality and document the facts. But even here caution is recommended. In the exhibition, artworks will be presented that take a conscious look at mathematics and geometry, at units of measurement and measuring, and codes as symbols.

Works from the DZ BANK Art Collection on display include John Baldessari, Peter Bialobrzeski, Jan Dibbets, Tamara Grcic, Andreas Gursky, Astrid Klein, Imi Knoebel, Robert Longo, Mario Merz, Olaf Metzel, Martin Parr, Miguel Rothschild, Timm Ulrichs, Ignacio Uriarte und Anna Vogel as well as new acquisitions of the artists Gwenneth Boelens, Jan Paul Evers, Timm Rautert, Thomas Ruff and Adrian Sauer.

The DZ BANK Art Collection was founded in 1993 and is the corporate collection of the DZ BANK AG (Deutsche Zentrale Genossenschaftsbank). The focus is on contemporary photo art.

FOAM TALENT | FRANKFURT
YOUNG INTERNATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHY
24 May — 26 August 2018
Opening: 23 May 2018, 7pm

For the first time in Germany, the Frankfurter Kunstverein presents the acclaimed exhibition Foam Talent in cooperation with Foam Fotografiemuseum Amsterdam. The show counts as one of the most innovative formats for tracing contemporary trends and tendencies in photography.

The exhibition presents 20 young artistic positions, who in extensive installations paint the picture of a generation concerned with questions about social identity, the repercussions of territorial conflicts, subcultural phenomena or the potentials of photographic production. A number of artists employ anthropological methods in their projects and proceed toward intense long-term research. Some take found footage from historical archives, private collections or the Internet and use it as raw material for their artistic investigations. Other positions are characterised by activist approaches as well as strategies of investigative journalism.

With Sushant Chhabria, David De Beyter, Mark Dorf, Alinka Echeverr.a, Weronika Gęsicka, Wang Juyan, Thomas Kuijpers, Quentin Lacombe, Cl.ment Lambelet, Namsa Leuba, Erik Madigan Heck, Alix Marie, Martin Errichiello & Filippo Menichetti, Wang Nan, Kai Oh, Viacheslav Poliakov, Ben Schonberger, Sadegh Sourì, Harit Srikhao and Vasantha Yoganathan.

Pure Passion — Amateur Photographs of the artists Peter Dammann, Eugen Gerbert, Axel Herrmann und Vasilii Lefter

2 May — 29 July 2018

Opening: 29 April 2018, 11am

The exhibition presents four previously unknown amateur photographers who each worked on their own, over decades, producing countless negatives, slides and prints according to a certain photographic concept. The late Axel Herrmann (1946–2010 DE) left behind a considerable number of private photographs that he took in the 1960s and 70s. The pilot travelled the world with his wife, a stewardess, and documented his experiences of remote destinations, before the onslaught of mass tourism. A love story is also at the core of the photo archive of Eugen Gerbert (1923–1995 DE) who photographed his wife Gerti (1931–2017) from the 1960s. Besides the obligatory family photos taken after work, Gerbert took numerous photos of Gerti. He photographed her in summer dresses, in lingerie or completely naked, on the beach, in the car or at home. A camera also accompanied the life of the engineer, Peter Dammann (*1936 DE), who mostly photographed his family in the 1960s and 70s. He took thousands of photos of his wife, his children, his parents and different relatives when they got together for family celebrations, birthdays or funerals. The photographic work of Vasilii Lefter (1943–1982 MD) remained undiscovered for over 25 years, stored in boxes on the balcony of his daughter, the artist Tatiana Fiodorova. The photographs, presented here for the first time, document the life of Moldovan farmers at the time of the Soviet Union.

Holy Smoke

From 26 May, 2018
Opening: 25 May 2018, 7pm

An economic liberal performance logic means that recipients of transfer benefits are considered unacceptable: as people who are unable to make a living because of their own incapacity. The result is a society full of contradictions and emotional conflicts about which groups have a right to solidarity – and which do not. Based on research on the role of poverty in art, Stefanie Schroeder and Christian A. Werner cross the boundaries of classical photography in their exhibition HOLY SMOKE. While in the Stilleben nach Renate P. (Still life of Renate P.) iconic motifs, which often stand for poverty among the elderly in newspaper reports, the video post-bank poses questions about the hamster wheel cycle of 360° - efficiency controls and the future of banks after the big crash. The title-giving silkscreen series Holy Smoke, finally, is dedicated to the lost potential of labour identities that provide purpose and the resulting flight into transcendental promises of salvation.

H x B x T

Felicity Hammond / Julian Irlinger / Bianca Pedrina / Kathrin Sonntag

25 May — 8 July 2018

Opening: 24 May 2018, 6pm

The international group show H x B x T is dedicated to the expansion of photography towards sculptural, performative and installative work. The partly exclusive new productions create new spaces in the exhibition rooms based on photographic prints. Thus, space is both the location and likewise the content of the artworks. The works play with mimicry and deceptive moments as well as with surfaces and reflections, and simultaneously question their own medium in the age of post-photography.

Physical visits of the spaces contrast with their conveyed presentation; real experience meets simulation. The exhibition thereby questions whether the fundamental difference between three-dimensional space and its two-dimensional simulation is still significant in today's digital age.

By combining references to remote locations and to the specific location of the exhibition space, the choice of works moves between the poles "in situ" and "ex situ," "regional" and "international". Foreign rooms migrate into the Kunstverein. The known conflates with the strange and extremely different.

Aspects of the Documentary in the Photographic Collection of the MMK

MMK 2 of MMK Museum für Moderne Kunst

23 March – 18 July 2018

Whether on a smartphone, in the newspaper or on a computer - every day we experience our world through a flood of photographs. Many of the artists represented in the MMK Collection have explored media images and reinterpreted them in their works. They reflect on political topics that have been disseminated through images in the press, deconstruct the authenticity of press photographs, or create images for topics that previously defied illustration. In the exhibition Image Profile, the MMK will examine how the media shapes our ability to perceive images. The presentation of works from the collection at the MMK 2 will feature a spectrum of contemporary modes of expression ranging from socio-political photojournalism to forms of subjective, conceptual or staged photography.

4 July – 16 September 2018

Ursula Schulz-Dornburg (*1938 DE) has centred on border landscapes, places of transit, and relics of outmoded cultures since the early 1970s. Her photographs confront us with cult and cultural sites in Europe, Asia, and the Near East and, above all, with the visible and invisible boundaries between these continents and regions. Assembling fourteen series, the exhibition offers a first institutional overall survey of Ursula Schulz-Dornburg's artistic development and the photographer's creative range over the past forty years.
